

We are very concerned about the proposal to allow a few people/ companies to control the airwaves and what the consumer is allowed to view. We strongly recommend more public comment and discussion before any changes are made. This is a very big change to policy and should not be done without a thorough review of how it will affect the American consumer. My opinion is that the airwaves should be very broadbased to provide us, the American community, a varied outlook on the news and not be subjected to any one ideology.
